

Restore Your System Without Discs

Your computer includes a new system recovery feature that does not require CDs or DVDs.

If you need to repair your system, you can do it from the hard drive or from your own set of recovery discs.

To burn your own set of recovery discs, select Start > All Programs > Recovery Manager > Recovery Manager. Then click Advanced Options > Recovery disc creation.

To repair or restore from the hard drive, restart the computer and press F11 when prompted.

For more information, refer to the recovery document in Start > Help and Support > User Guides or in a printed document included with your computer.

IMPORTANT: HP recommends that you create recovery discs to be sure that you can restore your system to its original factory state if you experience serious system failure or instability.

If you want to order recovery media instead of creating your own discs, contact HP at:
